Report on Club Inaugural 2019

The Elite English Learners' Club of the Department of English, Ramco Institute of Technology, inaugurated its activities for the academic year 2019–2020 on 09 August 2019 with the objective of encouraging students to develop effective communication skills, leadership qualities, and confidence through various language-based activities.

The inaugural programme was attended by 100 students from different departments. The event introduced students to the vision, objectives, and planned activities of the club. Faculty members highlighted the importance of English communication skills in academic excellence, career development, and personal growth.

The programme included an orientation about the club's annual events, competitions, workshops, seminars, and outreach programmes. Students were encouraged to participate actively and make the best use of the opportunities provided through the club.

The inaugural function witnessed enthusiastic participation and created a positive atmosphere among students. Faculty coordinators motivated the participants to improve their language proficiency and communication abilities through regular involvement in club activities.

The programme concluded successfully, marking the beginning of another productive year of learning, creativity, and communication excellence.
